

Guillaume is a physicist who specialises in solar cells. He is open-minded which helps him work with new materials not usually associated with solar cells, and is organised which allows him to explore lots of possibilities. When Guillaume finds his work difficult, he is resilient and refuses to give up until he has solved a problem.

resilient